II. PREPARING FOR YOUR FEMDOM EXPERIENCE

A. Foundation

- ☐ Establish roles.
- ☐ Set boundaries and limits.
- ☐ Discuss expectations and responsibilities for each.

B. Planning a Scene

- ☐ Choose activities you both enjoy or wish to try.
- ☐ Create a rough outline of how the scene will unfold.
- ☐ Decide on a setting, attire, and any necessary props or equipment.

C. Safety Precautions

- ☐ Establish safe words, both for stopping and slowing down.
- ☐ Ensure access to essential safety equipment (e.g., scissors or first aid kit).
- ☐ Have a plan for aftercare, both physical and emotional.

III. UNVEILING YOUR FEMDOM RELATIONSHIP

A. Debriefing

- ☐ After a scene, discuss what went well and what could be improved.
- ☐ Check in on how each partner is feeling, physically and emotionally.
- ☐ Acknowledge and validate both partners' experiences.

B. Adjusting and Growing

- ☐ Modify your approach based on feedback and new desires.
- ☐ Discuss any new limits or boundaries that arise.
- ☐ Maintain open communication about your femdom journey.

C. Continued Learning

- ☐ Stay current with the latest femdom practices and resources.
- ☐ Attend workshops, conferences, or community events.
- ☐ Share ideas and experiences within the femdom community.

WHAT WORKS

1. Visiting forums or join other communities dedicated to femdom.
2. Writing thoughts, preferences, feelings to make them clear in your mind and verbalize later.
3. Ensuring the partners feel heard and respected throughout outside their roles.
4. Starting simple and less intense when introducing new to build trust and confidence.
5. Staying grounded and being realistic.
6. Having a reasonable plan or idea.
7. Self-care matters.

WHAT DOESN'T WORK

1. Pressure.
2. Rushing.
3. Scripts.
4. Poor communication.
5. Poor common ground.
6. Ignoring yellow and red flags.
7. Doing it just because the other person wants you to.
